SAIL High School Goes Green

Posted: 5:20 PM Nov 28, 2007

SAIL is undertaking a program aimed at teaching students how to be more environmentally responsible.

Students will learn about energy, natural resources and the "3 R's": Reduce, Re-use and Recycle.

Some students even voluntarily spent the morning digging through the dumpster!

"We decided that we should dump out the trash over here and dig through it to show people what is recycle-able and what's not so they know what they're throwing away. As you look, about fifty percent of the trash we collected is recycle-able," said Matt Rainey.

The entire campus took part in today's workshops.

Students planted trees, explored environmentally-safe "green" cleaning and created artwork from trash.
